Start with the main body of the crocodile:

- Select a Green Paper Plate: This will serve as the body. If unavailable, paint or color a plain paper plate green.
- Optional: Cut the paper plate slightly to flatten or reshape if needed to add a more realistic body contour.

Step 2: Creating the Head

The head can be crafted from the same or a different paper plate or from construction paper:

- Option A: Use a Smaller Paper Plate ? Cut it in half or shape it into an oval to resemble the head.
- Option B: Cut Out from Construction Paper ? An oval or circle shape from green construction paper works well.

Attach the head to the body with glue, positioning it slightly angled for a more dynamic look.

Step 3: Adding Eyes

The eyes give personality to your crocodile:

- Using Googly Eyes: Simply glue two googly eyes onto the head.
- DIY Eyes: Cut small white circles from paper, add even smaller black circles for pupils, and glue them onto the head.

Position the eyes toward the top of the head, leaving enough space for the snout and other features.

The snout can be made from paper or additional paper plates:

- Snout: Cut a small oval or elongated shape from construction paper or a small paper plate fragment.
- Teeth: Cut small triangles from white paper or cardstock and glue along the edge of the snout to resemble teeth.

For a fun, cartoonish crocodile, make the teeth protrude slightly or add a row of tiny teeth along the upper and lower jaws.

- Tongue: Cut an oval or forked shape from red or pink paper and glue inside the mouth for a playful effect.

- Tail: Cut a long, tapered strip from green construction paper or a paper plate fragment. Attach it at the rear of the body, curving slightly for a more natural look.

Step 7: Detailing and Decorating

Add scales, spots, or texture for realism:

- Use markers or paint to draw scales, spots, or patterns.
- Glue small sequins or beads for a textured, shiny effect.
- Attach additional embellishments like leaves or jungle stickers for a themed background.

Step 8: Final Assembly and Touch-Ups

Ensure all pieces are securely glued:

- Use a cotton swab to apply glue precisely.
- Let the craft dry completely before handling or displaying.
